This is one of the crowd favorites and rightfully so. This Full Flush descendent is a very powerful female who is stout enough to make any bull famous. I think her Ali calf, whether it be bull or heifer, could be an outstanding prospect in anybody's pasture sale in 2010. This female will work great in anyone's program and is the caliber of female who is worthy of multiplying genetics out of her when comparably mated to the right bull.

Powerful and feminine best describes this low percent Maine female. Take note of the hip and hind leg in this heifer combined with her look and broodiness. She has female written all over her. She is super long necked with loads of quality. One of my favorites and sells bred to the ever so popular Grizzly. She could be one of the most exciting in the offering.

I think this is one of the best females in the offering. I don't know exactly what to say but I know one thing: this female will do nothing but generate Ben Franklins for her new owner. This female's mass and power along with her bone and with her moderation make her a true breeding piece. This coupled with her pedigree leads me to believe she's a prime candidate for Heat Wave and Heat Wave sons. Not to mention, her mother was one of the high sellers in a past Exposure sale. I have great confidence in this female. She has donor written all over her. Help yourself! Seller is retaining the right to one flush at the seller's expense and buyer's convenience.

Due to calve to Ali on April 7, 2010 but too close to call if Al'd or bull bred. PE'd to Ali x Full Flush son.

What a story life this young female has had. She's a Heat Wave out of the Voegle and England Who Made Who/Charolais donor 217. Yes, that's right. She's a flushmate to the steers that brought $45,000; $36,000; $22,000; $15,000 and $12,500 in 2008 pasture sales. And, not to mention her $20,000 2007 calf who went on to win the Belt Buckle Bonanza in 2008. I think this female has a very bright future in any operation. She's likely safe to Ali and that mating needs no introduction to the business. This female, with all this, leads me to believe that she will do nothing but generate green backs for your pocketbook and purple banners for your walls.
